

Check your grammar!

You're	Your
"you are"	Belongs to you
You're very good at grammar!	Check your grammar!

There	Their	They're
A place	Belongs to them	"they are"
There is a book	That is their book	They're the owners of that book

It's	Its
"It is"	Belongs to it
It's a good cat	The cat loves its food

Where	Were	We're	Wear
A place	In the past	"we are"	To put on (clothing) OR to wear down
Where is my book?	We were excited	We are beautiful	I like to wear my coat My car is suffering from wear and tear

Affect	Effect
The verb	The noun
The light levels affect my photos	My camera filter creates a fantastic effect
(An effect is the result of something being affected)

Stationery	Stationary
Pens, pencils, paper etc	Something that is not moving
I use stationery to write a letter	The train was stationary in the station

To	Two	Too
A preposition	A number between one and three	Also
I like to read books	I am two years old	I like reading too

Who's	Whose
"Who is"	Belongs to whom?
Who's your mother?	Whose mother did this?

Lose	Loose
To not win	Opposite of tight
I don't want to lose the race	My seatbelt is loose

Advice	Advise
The noun	The verb
I would like your advice	Please can you advise me
(Advice is what comes from being advised)

Peek	Peak
To sneakily look at something	The highest point
I had a peek at my birthday presents	I reached the peak of the mountain

Compliment	Complement
To say something nice about something	To go together well with something
I compliment my mum on her lovely hat	The hat and my mum complement each other

Instead of should of, would of, could of

The correct use is.....

Should have / should've

Would have / would've

Could have / could've